Viridian condos win multistate award

31-story development named Project of the Year

The Urban Land Institute's Atlanta District Council picked Nashville's Viridian condos on Church Street as its Project of the Year in a multistate region.

The 31-story Viridian was the first project outside Atlanta to win the group's award.

Developers are Atlanta-based Novare Group and Giarratana Development of Nashville.

Viridian beat out 16 other projects from Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama. It was recognized for having a major impact on urban development here and was given credit for fostering a wave of other urban high-rises. The Urban Land Institute is a nonprofit educational research foundation.
